East Orange, NJ

East Orange, New Jersey, nicknamed “The Crossroads of New Jersey,” is conveniently located at the intersection of the Garden State Parkway and Interstate 280, just several miles from Newark Liberty International Airport and less than 30 minutes from New York City.

With approximately 65,000 residents, the 3.9 square miles of East Orange are adjacent to the municipalities of Orange, West Orange, South Orange, Montclair, Glen Ridge, Bloomfield and Newark. Originally founded as a township in 1863, East Orange became incorporated as a city on January 1, 1909. By the close of the 19th century, East Orange was an agriculturally-rich area populated by oil tycoons and Newark industrialists. After World War II, East Orange became a growing destination for the migration of black middle class from the South, as well as southern parts of the state.

Known for its spacious homes and wide tree-lined streets, East Orange experienced a huge population surge between 1940-1950, paving the way for the addition of luxury high-rise buildings and a boom of commercial businesses along Main Street and Central Avenue. Once called the “Fifth Avenue of New Jersey,” Central Avenue attracted shoppers from around the region. In 1945, East Orange was ranked the 20th best place to live in the country among cities of a similar size and named the “Cleanest City in America” three times in the 1960s.

Transportation continues to be one of East Orange’s greatest assets. At the peak of its industrial growth, East Orange had three train lines, three trolley lines and six stations. Today, the city is designated as a Transit Village and its Brick Church and East Orange Train Stations offer daily direct service to midtown Manhattan.

Currently home to a diverse cultural mecca of people representing countries from around the globe, East Orange combines the best of urban and suburban living. Spacious and affordable housing, a low crime rate, main commercial corridors, distinctive Caribbean and Southern cuisine, transit access and historic green spaces make East Orange a quintessential city for urban renewal.

City of East Orange

Essex County, N.J.

DATE: _____

East Orange City government is divided into three branches: The Executive Branch under the supervision of the Mayor; the Legislative Branch comprised of the City Council and the Municipal Court which serves as the Judicial Branch.

The Mayor and City Council are elected to serve a four-year term. The 10-member Council consists of two representatives from each of the City's five geographic wards. Five members are elected to the City Council every odd year from each ward.

The Mayor is the City's Chief Executive Officer, responsible for the enforcement of City ordinances, the preparation and submission of the City's annual operating budget to the Council and the appointment and supervision of City Department Directors. The Mayor may also recommend legislation to the Council deemed in the best interest of the community. Each year, the Mayor reports to the City Council on the previous year's municipal operations.

The City Council is the local legislative body responsible for appropriating funds and enacting ordinances and resolutions governing the City. The City Council reviews and approves the Mayor's appropriations and annual budget. The Council reviews and approves the Mayor's appointments to City Departments and several Citizen Advisory Boards and Commissions.

Each New Year's Day, the City Council meets to organize for the year. It adopts its rules and selects one of its members to act as Chairperson during the year-long legislative session. The Chair appoints each Council Member to oversee a standing committee. These standing committees serve as Council liaisons to City departments, public agencies, civic groups and public service organizations.

The City Council Chairperson serves as an ex-officio member of every committee and is liaison to the Mayor, Essex County Commissioner Board, the NJ State Legislature, the United States Congress and the East Orange Parking Authority.

Public meetings are held bi-monthly in City Council Chambers located at 44 City Hall Plaza, East Orange, NJ. To contact your City Council Member, call the Council Office at (973) 266-5120.

EO VOTES

We have plenty of resources in place catered to meeting your needs as a resident of East Orange and we'd like you to take full advantage.

An important document that follows this page is a voter registration form application, included for the convenience of updating your address.

We've additionally included a vote-by-mail ballot application, to ensure that anyone who has the right to vote can exercise that right as simply and safely as possible. Vote-by-mail ballots sent through the mail must be postmarked by Election Day and received by the county Board of Elections on or before the sixth day after the close of the polls .

If you have any questions or need assistance completing either application, please contact the Municipal Clerk's Office at (973) 266-5110 or the Essex County Clerk's Office at (973) 621-4920.
